PRESS RELEASE

- And creating at least five partnerships with local governments to strengthen the recycling value chain. The parties established six partnerships across the country to promote waste separation at the source, with emphasis on recycling bottles.

“We will continue to promote the sustainable management of our packaging and a circular economy, both by using returnable glass and plastic containers, as well as bottles that are 100% recycled and recyclable, as we did last year by producing and distributing the first bottles made 100% out of other bottles”, stated Juan Félix Alba, general manager of the Arca Continental Lindley bottler.

These efforts reinforce Arca Continental’s leadership in sustainability, in addition to initiatives such as PetStar, the world’s largest food grade PET recycling facility, in Mexico; the inclusive recycling program known as DAR, in Ecuador; promoting returnability with a universal bottle in Mexico, Argentina, Ecuador, and Peru; and promoting community recycling through different efforts in the US.

It is important to mention that Arca Continental signed the New Plastics Economy Commitment (Acuerdo por la Nueva Economía del Plástico) in Mexico, in collaboration with the Mexican Senate, and the New Plastics Economy Global Commitment, led by the Ellen MacArthur Foundation and the UN, aimed at eradicating plastic waste and contamination from its root cause with new plastic containers regulations.

With actions such as those leading to being awarded this recognition, Arca Continental underscores its commitment to continuing to incorporate technologies to increase the use of recycled materials and promote returnability by promoting circular economy models in every territory where it operates, and striving to work in an articulated matter with several key players in environmental stewardship and the benefit of communities.
